If you have Windows use Sony's software. I mostly shoot scenics so have the time to set up, and generally use manual focus – the focus magnifier in the A when used with a manual focus lens is a huge help. The lens is optimized for digital cinematography with focus markings in feet.

If it will work better on a FF I do have the A7R3 but did not want to take it. When the camera is level in both directions, the indicator turns to green. The main thing that is interesting for me about the NEX system is the Viewfinder and Leica compatibility. The minimum focus distance on this lens is

Does attaching full frame lens to apc-sis fine? They are both good cameras, but
